Gyroscope Unit Set For Return

The 10th Infantry Division, which inaugurated Operation Gyroscope in 1955 when it changed places with the 1st Infantry Division, then in Germany, will return to the U. S. beginning in March of 1958.

But the 10th won't be coming back to its former home at Ft. Riley, Kans., as originally planned.

Instead, it will swap places with the 8th Infantry Division at Ft. Benning, Ga.

The Army said, however, that Regular Army soldiers who signed up for the Gyroscope movement of the 10th at Riley and who undertook personal obligations in the belief the division would return to Riley—such as purchasing a home—will be given assignments at that post.

It is obvious that the Army wants to give its soldiers a full year's notice, where possible, in Gyroscope shifts.

On the other hand, the Defense Department has yet to announce anything officially on the designation of the first Army divisions to be reorganized under the "Pentomic" concept, though there is strong indication that the 1st Infantry Division at Riley will be among the first divisions to be streamlined.

Military Bills Take High Spot As 85th Congress Swings In Action

The Congressional hopper was alive with military legislation this week as President Eisenhower went before the 85th Congress to deliver his State of the Union Message.

At the White House and Pentagon, work was being completed late this week on the military budget for the year starting 1 July. This will reach Capitol Hill on 16 January.

But even before the vital State of the Union and Budget Messages were in the hands of Senators and Representatives, scores of Service bills already had been introduced and were set for early hearings.

THE JOURNAL publishes on Page 11 of this issue a roundup of measures introduced during the first days of the new session.

On Pages 2 and 3 are other stories relating to important Service legislation.

The Pentagon obviously was moving to get the items in its 1957 legislative package before the Armed Services Committees as quickly as possible. Arrangements were completed for top-level briefings for Committee members.

There was, however, one delay. As THE JOURNAL went to press, Defense Department officials said that work still was in progress on the Cordiner Committee Report. This document—its release is expected shortly—will spell out Defense Department military pay raise objectives in the 85th Congress.

There had been earlier expectation that the Cordiner Committee Report would be completed in December.

Free barber services and free mail privileges are among dozens of military laws proposed during the opening days of the 85th Congress.

The legislators also want laws to cut rents for military families occupying inadequate quarters (see below), to provide emergency leave for Service personnel when a death occurs in their immediate family, and to cut income taxes for Servicemen overseas.

They want the Navy to serve oleo to its men. They want Academy graduates to get pay credit for their time at the Academies. They want dual pay restrictions eased for retired military men.

They urge that Reserve officers be given credit for time spent in CCC camps, and they've got ideas about what the Navy should name its ships—USS Brooklyn has been suggested for the next cruiser, and USS Paul Revere for the next transport-type ship.

They also ask that Federal aid be withheld from National Guard units that practice discrimination or segregation, and they want to eliminate rules which provide that Servicemen can be tried by foreign courts.

These proposals and the remainder of the 66 military laws which had been introduced before THE JOURNAL went to press are listed on page 11.

Rent Cut Plan Ready To Go

The $15 million "inadequate quarters bill" was back on the Congressional calendar this week.

The proposal, HR 1056, was re-introduced in the House by Representative Charles E. Bennett (D-Fla.), who told THE JOURNAL "its prospects look good."

More than 36,000 military families would win rent cuts under the plan, which narrowly missed enactment by the 84th Congress.

The measure provides that Service families assigned to substandard quarters would pay reduced rents while continuing to draw their full quarters allowances.

In another development on the housing front, the Army invited bids for the second phase of Capehart housing units authorized for construction at Ft. Rucker, Ala.

Plans call for the construction of 480 two- and three-bedroom units which will be continued in 240 buildings. Rucker currently is in the process of awarding bids on 120 other units.

Air Force Chooses 260 For Colonel Rank

THE following are the names of 260 Air Force line officers selected for temporary promotion to colonel. They will be advanced in increments during the period 7 January through 30 April.

This concludes the fiscal '57 program for selecting officers for higher temporary ranks in the Air Force. Approximately 4000 were selected for captain, 2000 for major and 800 for lieutenant colonel.

NEXT WEEK—

NEXT WEEK'S ISSUE of THE JOURNAL will feature an interview with Col. Mary L. Milligan, USA, new Director of the WAC. She is shown here taking the oath of office from Maj. Gen. Herbert Jones, USA, himself just sworn in (see next page) as The Adjutant General.

VADM. JAMES L. HOLLOWAY, jr., USN, Chief of Naval Personnel, will tell of Navy progress in putting into action recommendations for career attractiveness improvements made this summer by petty officer panels at Bainbridge, Md., and San Diego, Calif. This will be an interim report.

THE MILITARY BUDGET goes to Capitol Hill on 16 January, which means that JOURNAL readers can count on comprehensive stories and analyses of fiscal '58 spending plans in next week's issue. There also will be news and comments about the President's State of the Union Message.

FROM FT. BRAGG, N. C., a JOURNAL staff member will give a first-hand account of an important tactical test involving elements of the Army's experimental 101st Airborne Division and the Tactical Air Command. This story will be particularly significant in view of the Army's announcement that it plans to streamline all 19 combat divisions.

THE ARMED SERVICES COMMITTEES are set to swing into action on Capitol Hill. Their hearings will be followed closely to keep readers up-to-the-minute on all legislative developments—including authoritative behind the scenes coverage that JOURNAL readers have come to count on during all Congressional sessions.

'Twas The Week Before The Budget

On 7 January, Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker spoke in Washington at a luncheon meeting of the West Point Society. At the same time, Air Force Secretary Donald A. Quarles was appearing before the League of Republican Women in Washington. Both talked about the need for adequate funds for the Armed Forces. Here is what they said:

Secretary Brucker

"It would be folly to believe that moral suasion not solidly backed by strength could prevail in the long run against the moral anarchy of the communist conspiracy, which is committed to the extension of its godless tyranny by every means at its command—including the unrestricted employment of armed might. We must recognize that the lawless obey the law only when their real fear of the consequences of lawless acts outweighs their hope of gain. A potential aggressor will be deterred from war only when he knows beyond the shadow of any doubt that the consequences of launching an attack would be disastrous to him—that he could not hope to profit from his adventure."

Secretary Quarles

"Securing ourselves as well as we can against the dangers of air/atomic

Proposal Gives Service Sons Greater Opportunity To Enter USMA And USAFA

Scores of Service sons would win added chances for appointment to West Point and the new Air Force Academy under legislation proposed by the Pentagon.

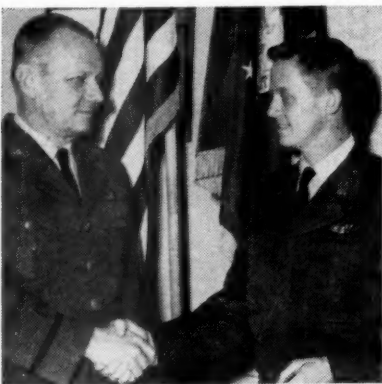

The recommended law, which went to the Capitol this week, will be introduced in the House by Representative Carl T. Durham (D-NC), one of the ranking members of the House Armed Services Committee.

It calls for an increase in the number of appointments which the President can make to the Military and Air Force Academies from among sons of Service personnel from the present limit of 89 to 300, covering the four classes. "Appointment of this type of personnel is highly desirable," the Pentagon said, "as they are strongly motivated toward careers in the Army and Air Force."

The President already has authority to annually appoint 75 Service sons to Annapolis. Thus, he would be given similar authority for each of the other two Services.

Such legislation, the Defense Department said, would permit the Services to more nearly meet their annual requirements for Academy graduates.

At present, the Army requires 1550 new Regular officers each year (not counting Medical, Chaplain Corps and WAC personnel), and the Air Force needs 1200.

LT. RODGER L. BROOKS, USAF, 24, right, receives congratulations from Brig. Gen. L. C. Coddington, USAF, commander, McConnell AFB, Kans., for successfully completing B-47 transition training. The youngest aircraft commander ever to graduate from the McConnell B-47 school was termed "an excellent example of young qualified officers in the United States Air Force" by the General.

The present average graduating strength at West Point is 550 and the new law will increase this number to about 585 or 590. It is expected to have a similar effect at the USAF Academy when it reaches its full capacity.

The Pentagon said the proposal will cost about $212,000 annually, but is not expected to increase the facilities at either Academy.

Nurse-Specialist Plan Goes To Hill

A $6.7 million proposal to improve careers of Armed Forces nurses and medical specialists went to the Capitol this week and was to be introduced in the House by Representative Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex.) as THE JOURNAL went to press.

The legislation increases promotion opportunities for nurses and medical specialists and ups the permanent grade which the average officer can expect to attain in a full career—from captain to major in the Army and Air Force and from lieutenant to lieutenant commander in the Navy.

The number of Army and Navy officers presently authorized to serve as lieutenant colonels and commanders (Air Force law already is adequate) also is increased under the terms of the proposal, and the plan establishes the permanent grade of colonel and Navy captain for nurses and medical specialists.

The Army recently took administrative action to promote scores of nurses and medical specialists to the three field grades.

The newly proposed legislation was drafted early last year but was submitted to the 84th Congress too late for action. Originally it called for an expenditure of $5.5 million during the first five years after passage. The cost has now been upped to $6,765,796 through Fiscal Year 1962.

Army and Air Force officers would be retired under procedures which are applicable generally to other Regular officers of those services.

In the Navy, the proposal originally provided for the retirement of captains under the same conditions as commanders and lieutenant commanders of the Navy Nurse Corps may now be retired in the discretion of the Secretary, that is, on reaching 55 years of age or completion of 20 years of active service, whichever is the later.

This provision for the Navy has been changed and two new sections have been added as follows:

Provides for the selective retention on active duty of captains and commanders and, if not so selected, for their mandatory retirement on reaching age 55, or on completion of 30 years of service whichever is the earlier.

Provides for the mandatory retirement of lieutenant commanders on reaching age 55 or on completion of 30 years of service, whichever is earlier, and for the mandatory retirement of officers in grades below lieutenant commander on reaching age 50 or on completion of 20 years' service, whichever is later.

Removes the present limitation on the number of officers in the Medical Service Corps who may serve in the grade of captain and permits officers in the Medical Service Corps to serve as members of selection boards recommending officers of that corps for promotion.

Except for these changes, the proposal is substantially the same as reported in the 19 May 1956 and 6 October 1956 issues of THE JOURNAL.

In transmitting the legislation, the Pentagon said it is "essential if the military services are to attract professionally qualified women in sufficient numbers" to meet the requirements of the Regular ranks.

Armed Services Committee Members

Republican Senators Prescott Bush (Conn.) and Frank A. Barrett (Wyo.) were added to the ranks of the Senate Armed Services Committee this week.

In the House, the Democrats appointed Representatives James A. Byrne (Pa.), Toby Morris (Okla.) and A. Paul Kitchin (N.C.) to the House Armed Services Committee. Three vacancies on the Republican side had not been filled at press time.

The Committees again will be headed by Georgia legislators Senator Richard B. Russell and Representative Carl Vinson. Ranking minority members are Senator Styles Bridges (N.H.), or Senator Leverett Saltonstall (Mass.), if Senator Bridges again relinquishes this position, and, in the House, Representative Leslie C. Arends (Ill.).

Here is the complete slate except for the vacancies in the Republican ranks on the House Committee:

Salary Boost Sought For Point Chaplain

The Army wants to increase the pay of the West Point Chaplain and to provide him with an assistant.

Legislation which went to the Hill this week, and which is to be introduced in the House by Representative Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex.), also provides for appointment of the two chaplains by the Secretary of the Army instead of the President as is the present practice.

This is in keeping with efforts to relieve the President of some of the burden of his administrative duties.

The proposal, in addition to raising the salary of the West Point Chaplain (because of the increase in the size of the Cadet Corps since 1896 and an attendant increase in his duties) also boosts his allowances from those of a captain to those of a major.

Destroyer Soley Ends 36,000-Mile Cruise

The destroyer USS Soley, under the command of Cdr. Charles H. Witten, USN, has arrived at Norfolk, Va., after completing a six-month cruise of Mediterranean and the Middle East waters and a trip around the Cape of Good Hope. Since departing Norfolk on 28 July 1955, the Soley steamed about 36,000 miles.

USMC Board Convenes To Pick Regular 2d Lts

Col. W. M. Nelson, Head, Special Services Branch, Personnel Department, HQMC, is serving as President of a board which met on 8 January to select Reserve 2d lieutenants for appointments as permanent commissioned officers in the Regular Marine Corps.

The board, which will be in session for about two weeks, is considering the records of Reservists with dates of rank from 5 June 1954 through 3 June 1955.

New Army JAG, His Service Brothers, Troubled By Turnover In Lawyers

ARMY SEC'Y BRUCKER administers the oath of office to Maj. Gen. Herbert M. Jones, USA, center, The Adjutant General, and Maj. Gen. George W. Hickman, Jr., USA, right, new Judge Advocate General of the Army. The Army's new Assistant JAG is Maj. Gen. Stanley W. Jones, USA.

THE administration of military justice will be jeopardized unless the Services are able to obtain and keep more career lawyers.

That is the forecast of the Army's new Judge Advocate General, Maj. Gen. George W. Hickman, Jr.

General Hickman and the Judge Advocate General of the Navy and Air Force are confronted with a formidable problem as a result of the heavy turnover in their ranks and the stringent requirements of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

The Army now has approximately 1100 JAG officers, of whom roughly 400 are first lieutenants.

General Hickman noted in an interview that during the past year less than 10 JAG officers agreed to remain on active duty at the end of their obligated three-year tour.

Successor to Maj. Gen. Eugene M. Caffey, USA-Ret., General Hickman, a longtime Infantry Officer, related that the caliber of the young lawyers serving in the Army "is extremely high, since we are able to pick from among considerable numbers of law school graduates."

The Army JAG added, however, that "we face a serious situation because many lieutenants must fill billets that call for higher experience levels and because we are short of career judge advocates."

The Air Force said that its present strength of 1201 JA's under Maj. Gen. Reginald M. Harmon, USAF, Air Force JAG, includes 405 first lieutenants and 123 second lieutenants.

The Navy has 405 JA's—49 of them lieutenants, junior grade—under RAdm. Chester C. Ward, USN.

Defense Department sources reveal that the concern of the Service legal chiefs about the current personnel situation will be reflected in attempts to win approval from the 85th Congress for resuming legal training programs for Regular officers.

A rider in the Appropriations Act forbids such training at the present time.

The Army and Air Force are hopeful that their situation will be improved by forthcoming augmentation action, but they believe that it is essential to authorize assignment of line officers for legal training to assure maximum effectiveness in the administration of military justice.

An indication of the heavy workload that now confronts senior military lawyers is evidenced in General Hickman's disclosure that the four independent Boards of Review in the Department of the Army now handle between 93 and 100 cases per month.

Each Board consists of three members. The boards are completely independent units responsible to the JAG only for administrative purposes.

General Hickman and the new Assistant JAG, Maj. Gen. Stanley W. Jones, USA, supervise three main offices at the Pentagon. These are the Assistant JAG for Military Justice, Assistant JAG for Civil Law and the Executive Office, which also handles career management matters.

There are vacancies for appointment of two JAGC brigadier generals to head the Military Justice and Civil Law offices. Col. Charles L. Decker, USA, is the Executive Officer, and his Assistant is Lt. Col. Charles L. Ricks, USA.

Provisions of the Uniform Code of Military Justice require that the Office of the Judge Advocate General include two appellate divisions. One handles representation problems for the Government in all military appeal litigation; the other is equally responsible to insure representation for defendants.

A key activity of the JAGC is its School at Charlottesville, Va., under Col. Nathaniel B. Rieger, USA. This facility provides a 35-week advanced course in military law, as well as an 11-week course for new JAGC officers upon their completion of seven weeks Infantry training at Ft. Benning, Ga.

GENERAL HICKMAN, who will be 53 on 3 Feb., is a 1926 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy. A native of Calhoun, Ky., he was graduated from Harvard Law School in 1948, his earlier legal training there having been interrupted by outbreak of WWII.

In May 1948, he was assigned to the Office of The Judge Advocate General, and was assigned as Chief of Claims and Litigation Division in July 1948. He served in that capacity until January 1949.

In February 1949, General Hickman returned to the Far East, as Judge Advocate of General Headquarters, Far East Command of the UN Command, and participated in the peace talks in Korea. He returned to the United States in July 1952, and was assigned as Chairman of a Board of Review in the Office of The Judge Advocate General, Department of the Army, Washington, D. C.

In October 1952, he was reassigned as Executive Officer of the Office of The Judge Advocate General and served in that capacity until May 1954, when he was appointed Assistant Judge Advocate General in Charge of Civil Law Matters.

187th Combat Group At Ft. Bragg For Large Scale Test Of "Pentomic" Concept

FT. BRAGG, N. C.
EIGHTEEN hundred men from the re-enforced 187th Airborne Infantry Combat Group have landed here from Ft. Campbell, Ky., for the conduct of Market II, the first large-scale battle maneuver in the testing of the new "Pentomic" 101st Airborne Division.

Scheduled to be engaged in the air drop and the air landings here are the 1800 men of the re-enforced group, five 105mm. howitzers, 185 quarter-ton trucks, 44 three-quarter ton trucks, 10 six-thousand pound platforms of supplies and 177 tons of monorail supply and equipment bundles.

Aircraft of the 18th Air Force participating include 66 Fairchild C-119 Flying Boxcars, 42 Fairchild C-123 assault transports and 20 Douglas C-124 Globemasters. In addition, 42 Army H-34 Sikorsky helicopters are prepared to transport infantrymen, vehicles and equipment within the combat zone.

The importance of this first large-scale test is demonstrated by the attendance here of high-ranking military observers from the Department of the Army, Continental Army Command, Third Army, 82d Airborne Division and the 11th Airborne Division in Germany, the Command and General Staff School, and various Army boards.

In addition, there are observers from allied nations, including Great Britain and Australia.

Analysis of the data from the test will result either in confirmation or modification of the combat group structure and will influence not only the Army's three airborne divisions, but also play an important part in the pending reorganization.

tion of the infantry and armored divisions, all of which are to be reorganized on the five-sided concept being pioneered by the 101st Airborne Division under command of Maj. Gen. Thomas L. Shernburne, USA.

Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, USA, Third Army Commander, also is here as Test Director. Col. Melvin Zais, USA, is Commander of the 187th Airborne Combat Group.

Fresh from special schooling for their tasks are 34 controllers and 38 evaluators, who will remain with the troops and make reports and recommendations afterwards.

Lt. Col. Doyle Commands USMC's First HR2S Sq.

Lt. Col. Griffith B. Doyle, USMC, has been named to lead the first squadron of giant HR2S Sikorsky helicopters commissioned in the Marine Corps' air arm.

Designated HMR(M)-461, the Squadron was to be placed into commission at the Marine Corps Air Facility, New River, N. C., on 12 Jan.

At present, a cadre of pilots and a ground crew is undergoing intensive training at the Marine Corps Air Station, Quantico, Va. When they have completed the training course, they will return to New River to teach other members of the Squadron how to operate and maintain the massive 'copters.

In carrying out its mission as a transport outfit, HMR(M)-461 will support the operations of the 2d Marine Division at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Armed Forces Will Parade 11 Missiles At Inauguration; 12,000 Will March

A highlight of the Inauguration Day Parade (21 January) will be the display of 11 of the Armed Forces' operational guided missiles.

As the parade swings down Pennsylvania Avenue, parade spectators and television viewers will get a close up view of four Army, four Navy and three Air Force missiles.

The Army will display a Redstone Missile, a Corporal Missile, two Honest John Rockets and two Nike Missiles.

The Navy will parade a Regulus, a Terrier, a Sidewinder and a Sparrow.

The Air Force missile display consists of a Snark, a Matador and a Falcon.

Nearly 12,000 Armed Service officers and men will participate in the parade. The Army will be represented by about 4,150 troops, the Navy by about 3,100, the Air Force by about 2,350, the Marine Corps by about 1,300, the Coast Guard by about 500, and the Merchant Marine by about 400.

Much of the color of the parade will be centered around the top-flight Service bands. The U. S. Military Academy cadets and their band will march 1,200 strong.

The U. S. Naval Academy will march 1,900 midshipmen and bandmen in the giant parade.

The recently organized U. S. Air Force Academy will be represented by 550 cadets and a 37-piece band.

The Marine Corps will march its 75-man band.

In addition, there will be many honor guards, mounted units, drum and bugle corps and color guards.

HEAT PUMPS COOL AF HOMES

The Air Force has Defense Department approval to use electric heat pumps to heat and cool the 1,535 Title VIII family quarters scheduled for SAC's Little Rock AFB, Ark. Construction on the housing project will begin shortly. The application of this principle at Little Rock AFB will be the first use of such equipment in AF family housing.

Heat pumps operate on the same principle as an electric refrigerator. They extract heat from the outside air—even in below freezing temperatures—and use the heat to warm home interiors. To cool the houses, the heat pumps reverse their operation and extract heat and excess moisture from inside, discharging the warm air outdoors.

The pumps planned for the on-base airman and officer family housing units at Little Rock are self-contained units with an outside outlet which fits against the wall of the building. They are hermetically sealed systems, using the air-to-air principle with no coils, deep wells, or heat source other than the outside air.

Army Tells Staff College Choices, Leavenworth List Is Due Shortly

The Army has released the names of 63 officers selected to attend Class No. 22 at the Armed Forces Staff College, Norfolk, Va. The course begins 26 August 1957 and concludes on 24 Jan. 1958.

The list of Air Force selections for the AFSC was published in THE JOURNAL of 29 Dec 1956, which also reported other Army senior school designations.

Army officials said that the list of choices for the Command and General Staff College at Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., will be released shortly, probably within the next two weeks.

In the following list of Army AFSC selections, all officers are lieutenant colonels—45 lieutenant colonels, 14 majors and 4 colonels—unless otherwise indicated:

USNA MEMORIAL STADIUM FUNDS APPEAL

(The following message has been sent to all Naval activities over the signature of Secretary Charles S. Thomas, Chief of Naval Operations Arleigh Burke and Marine Corps Commandant Randolph McC. Pate.)

A NAVY-MARINE Corps Memorial Stadium will be constructed at the Naval Academy commencing in the Spring of 1957. This will be a lasting memorial to all of us serving today in the Navy and Marine Corps as well as to those who have served before us.

"The stadium will be built with private funds since it is not deemed appropriate to request funds from the Congress for this purpose.

"More than a million dollars has already been accumulated in a memorial stadium fund and construction will be started with this money. To raise the amount required to complete the stadium the Naval Academy Athletic Association has been receiving voluntary contributions.

"Commanding officers are requested to bring this worthwhile endeavor to the attention of all their personnel. While no solicitation of funds within the meaning of SecNav Instruction 5340.1A shall be made, voluntary contributions may be accepted and sent directly to the treasurer, Naval Academy Athletic Association, Annapolis, Maryland for the Memorial Stadium Fund. Names of ships and stations contributing will be suitably recorded on bronze plaques at the stadium."

New Rule Requires All Marines To Wear Scarf

HQMC has issued an order which makes wearing of the green scarf mandatory for all male officers and men when they don the topcoat as part of the Winter Service uniform while on leave, liberty and in garrison.

In the past, the scarf could be worn optionally. The green neckpiece, however, can continue to be worn on an optional basis with the raincoat when the raincoat is worn with the Winter Service uniform.

Ribbon Bar Rule

At the same time, HQMC decreed that ribbon bars shall be placed with the lower edge of the lower bar 1/8th inch above the top seam of the pocket; parallel rows of bars to be either 1/8 inch apart or together at the option of the individual Marine.

These rules are contained in Marine Corps Order 1021.18, dated 27 Dec. 1956 and apply to Reserves as well as to Regulars.

CAPT. ROY M. DuCHARM, USMC, (left) smiles at a comment made by General Randolph McC. Pate, CMC, during ceremonies at which he was presented a Bronze Star Medal and a Gold Star in place of a second Bronze Star for heroism in action during the Korean War.

HQMC Lists Junior Officers

HQMC has listed the names of officers, as of 1 Jan. 1957, who have been promoted or for whom vacancies existed under the Officer Personnel Act of 1947.

Officers listed in the "Permanent" column are the last officers eligible for permanent promotion based on the number authorized by the distribution of permanent officers for calendar year 1956. HQMC anticipates that the redistribution of officers and the numbers who may now hold permanent appointments in the various ranks during 1957 will be established in the Spring of this year. At that time, additional permanent advancements will be made.

South America Learns ASW Tactics From USN

Capt. C. M. Foster, USN, Commander, Destroyer Squadron 24, has been placed in overall command of a nine ship force which is making a three-month tour of South American ports to demonstrate U.S. Navy anti-submarine tactics to host navies.

The force includes six escort destroyers, one destroyer escort, and two submarines.

The destroyer-type ships departed from their home port of Newport, R. I., and the submarines from Key West, Fla., on 4 Jan. and proceeded to Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, where they operated together for several days before splitting into two groups.

The first group, under command of Capt. A. Coward, USN, Commander, Destroyer Division 242, will visit South American ports on the Pacific seaboard. His group is comprised of three escort destroyers and a submarine.

The second group, led by Captain Foster, is made up of three escort destroyers, a destroyer escort and a submarine. These vessels will visit ports on the Atlantic coast of South America.

In addition to demonstrating methods of anti-submarine warfare, the American ships will join with ships from each host country in combined exercises. They also will show a series of Navy training films and demonstrate search and attack tactics.

Ships visiting the Atlantic coast countries are the escort destroyers USS Fred T. Berry (DDE-858), USS Norris (DDE-859) and USS McCaffery (DDE-860); the destroyer escort USS Dealey (DE-1006); and the submarine USS Balao (SS-285).

The escort destroyers USS Lloyd Thomas (DDE-764), USS Keppler (DDE-765) and USS Harwood (DDE-861), and the submarine USS Batfish (SS-31) are touring the Pacific side of the continent.

Portrait of a man's supersonic alter ego

The speeds and altitudes achieved by today's aircraft have placed them beyond a human pilot's physical resources. They fly faster than he can think, decide and react... exert forces beyond his own strength or that of old-time hydraulic systems.

The answer: electro-mechanical colleagues with the superhuman reflexes, sensitivity and strength to cope with the phenomena of supersonic flight.

At AUTONETICS, autopilots are being produced that can take over a vehicle's controls and perform whatever maneuver the mission requires. These supersonic stand-ins are so swift, so sure, so sensitive they can feel out sudden changes in a plane's attitude and correct them before the pilot himself can sense them.

And they are fully integrated with automatic landing systems that groove supersonic craft like descending escalators as they approach and touch down at speeds so great they are a military secret. And they can do this at night, in rain or fog or snow.

These AUTONETICS systems—being used in both manned aircraft and missiles—are made possible by the imaginative marriage of engineering theory and practical design... supported by production tools and techniques as unique as the electro-mechanical nerves, muscles, brains and senses they produce.

AUTONETICS is a quality and quantity producer of flight control, auto-navigation, armament control, computer and other complete automatic control systems with significant implications for commerce and industry.

For more detailed information about this dynamic field, please write: AUTONETICS, Dept. J-71, 12214 Lakewood Blvd., Downey, California.

Medical Service

The eight Medical Service lieutenant colonels selected for temporary colonel all hold dates of rank from 1951. In order of seniority, they are Elliot P. Rigsby, Donald F. Westra, Ralph C. Tutor, Carmen A. Peterson, Harr F. Register, Jr., Jack C. Carmichael, Willie C. Magness and William M. Johnson.

The first three will be promoted on 13 Feb.; the next four on 28 March and Lieutenant Colonel Johnson on 3 April.

Medical Corps

The 26th and last name on the list of Medical Corps selections is that of Lt. Col. John P. Stapp, who is famed for his acceleration and deceleration tests. He holds date of rank from 1 June 1952.

The senior man on the list ranks from 1943, as does the No. 2 selection. There is one from 1949, 11 from 1950, and 11 from 1951.

The promotion schedule calls for promotions through No. 9 in January, through 17 in February, through 23 in March and the final advancement on 8 April.

Here are the selections for Medical Colonel:

Veterinary

One Veterinary officer will be promoted to colonel. He is Marley C. Clark of USAF Headquarters. He has date of rank from 1 August 1951 and will be promoted on 28 March.

Chaplains

Three Chaplains were chosen for temporary colonel. They are Joseph T. O'Brien, who ranks from 1948, William F. Taylor, Jr., who has been a lieutenant colonel since 1949, and John D. St. John, whose date of rank is 20 February 1951.

AF Considers 30,000 Reserves For Ranks

The Air Force convenes on 14 Jan. a board to consider Reserve majors for promotion to lieutenant colonel who have date of rank of 30 June 1951 or earlier and who have total years service dating from 30 June 1937 or earlier.

This will be the kickoff action for consideration of 30,000 Reservists not currently on active duty for higher rank.

The captain to major board meets on 21 Jan. and lieutenant to captain on 28 Jan. The latter board also will consider Reserve Warrant Officers W-1 who have completed or will complete three or more years promotion service in permanent grade before 30 June 1958.

The criteria for promotion to major is date of rank of 30 June 1951 and total service from 30 June 1944; for captain, the respective dates are 30 June 1954 and 30 June 1951.

The selections to lieutenant colonel and major do not include members of the WAF, Nurses and Medical Specialists. The Reserve Officer Promotion Act limits the promotion of a nurse or woman medical specialist except to fill an authorized vacancy; WAF officers may not be promoted above major except to fill an authorized vacancy in her category.

T.V. FOR RAMEY

The Air Force has received approval to construct and operate a low-power TV station at SAC's Ramey AFB, Puerto Rico.

This brings to 16 the number of AF television stations either on the air or approved for operation.

AF Aids Scouts

The Boy Scouts of America have been advised that the Air Force will provide airlift to support the 1957 Air Explorer Program. This will involve the exchange of 50 Explorer Scouts from the U. S. with 20 Scouts from European countries and 30 from Asiatic countries.

More Commitments, Less Strength? It is good that President Eisenhower's request for a free hand in the use of our Armed Forces in protecting the Middle East has been presented to Congress prior to consideration of the defense appropriations.

It seems to us that Congress will want to take this new international obligation into consideration in connection with strength levels it will permit with 1958 money. As President Eisenhower pointed out in his message to Congress, we already have security treaties with 42 other nations; we are committed to take decisive action in relation to Greece and Turkey and Taiwan; and we have our UN, NATO and other collective defense arrangements.

Notwithstanding this formidable array of international obligations and our apparent willingness to take on more responsibilities, we have in the past two years reduced our Army by 375,000 men, and the Department of Defense is talking of cutting back even further. After having cut the previous goal of a "minimum" of 143 wings to a "minimum" of 137 wings, the Department of Defense is now talking of even further cutbacks in air power objectives.

It would seem logical that if we are to continue to extend ourselves in the field of international commitments we had better stop this constant lowering of strength levels.

Open Season on PX's. The Defense Department's announcement that it will ask Congress for authority to add certain necessary items to the list of things which may be sold in Service exchanges already has brought fire from one of those retail organizations which don't think there ought to be any PX's anyway.

The National Retail Dry Goods Association, through its Washington representative, has served notice that it will oppose the changes not only as a group, but it will ask department stores to appeal to individual members of the Armed Services Committees not to approve the Defense Department's request.

Mr. John C. Hazen, NRDGA Vice President for Government Affairs, charges that adding the new items to PX sales would open the way for removal of all restraints. He contends that the proposed new items do not fit the criterion of "convenience and necessity." The proposed additions include such items as clothing and accessories for children up to 12 years of age and baby furniture (ask any mother or father if these are not items of "convenience and necessity"). Also included are tires and batteries without which it would be pretty difficult to use privately owned automobiles on government business, which, as everyone knows, is the prevailing practice.

Further opposition may be expected from other retail organizations and also from the gasoline and oil chains who don't like gas pumps on Service posts and bases.

Similar attacks were made on the Exchanges in 1953 by the American Retail Federation. They were investigated thoroughly by the Hess Subcommittee of the House Committee on Armed Services. The hearings resulted in a clean bill of health for the Exchanges and a rap on the knuckles for the Federation. "With the constant whittling away of the conveniences and attractions of the Services, it is small wonder that a military career is increasingly less appealing," the Committee said in its report. Since that date there has been an even greater realization in Congress of the personnel problems of the Services, which, we hope, will again lead to support of Service needs in the matter of Exchange conveniences.

SATURDAY, 12 JANUARY 1957

NATO's Power. In his 17 November statement on disarmament, Soviet Premier Bulganin boasted that Russia could conquer West Europe easier today than it could have directly after World War II. If Russia had the aggressive tendencies credited to it, he declared, "It would seem that the Soviet Union could use the present situation for coming out against the armed forces of the Atlantic bloc and could accomplish the military aims with regard to Western Europe ascribed to it, even without the use of up-to-date nuclear and rocket weapons."

President Eisenhower, in his reply, has not only turned down Bulganin's suggestion for a four-power disarmament conference outside the United Nations, but also reaffirmed his faith in NATO's strength by saying: "Your government's statement suggests that the strategic situation in Western Europe is now advantageous to the armed forces of the Soviet Union. This statement does not seem calculated to relieve international tensions. Moreover, I am convinced in the light of my long association with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that it is fully capable of carrying out its mission of collective security."

The Russians respect President Eisenhower's ability as a general. They should likewise respect this straight forward evaluation of the military power of the free world, with which he has so long been intimately associated both as a general and as a statesman.

QUOTES FROM THE JOURNAL

10 Years Ago (11 Jan. 1947)—The Army Air Forces broke 23 international and two national aviation and established four new international records during 1946. Among them was the speed run of the P-84 which flew 619 miles per hour at Muroc Army Air Base, Calif.

50 Years Ago (12 Jan. 1907)—There is a general outcry among Congressmen who are employed only five months that they cannot live upon their salaries of $5,000 a year and mileage. And yet these same Congressmen expect an Army officer to give his entire time to the Government for $1,600 a year.

90 Years Ago (12 Jan. 1867)—The Paris correspondent of the New York Times in a late letter speaks of the augmented pay of the French Army, and, by way of commentary, adds "your officers will laugh at the pay of French officers." On looking a little closer into the fact, we see nothing in particular to laugh at; for, instead of our officers receiving so much larger a stipend, it appears the advantage, if there is one, is with the latter.

READERS' VIEWS

(Letters to the Editor must have author's name and address, but name will be omitted on publication if writer so states. Longer letters may be extracted for publication.)

Trials Abroad

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Your article (Dec. 29), captioned "Law Profs Study Shows U. S. Servicemen Getting Fair Deal in Foreign Courts," is a sad commentary on the present status of our Constitution in the lives of Americans.

The law professors quoted, Rev. Joseph M. Snee, S.J., and A. Kenneth Pye, both of Georgetown University Law School, found no violation of "the fundamental rights of any servicemen," and that the procedures followed and results reached were not such "as to shock the conscience or offend against a concept of ordered liberty."

The term "ordered liberty" has no definite legal meaning. The only legal restrictions on the free, untrammelled exercise of individual freedom by Americans are those prescribed in the Constitution of the U.S., the Constitutions of the several States, and in laws enacted by our various echelons of government within their respective fields of competence as defined in these documents.

Whether foreign court procedures "shock the conscience" of anyone is unimportant; neither is it of fundamental concern to Americans that the numerous State Department employees abroad are not subject to the tender mercies of foreign functionaries. What does "shock the conscience" of many Americans is that our Federal Government has usurped the authority, allegedly under Article

VI of the U.S. Constitution, to deny Americans any of the rights they guaranteed themselves when they approved the Constitution of the United States.

W. F. MAHER,
COLONEL, U. S. ARMY (RET'D)

Retroactive Rentals

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Once again, we are promised that the Defense Department will try and do something about reducing the rents for those of us occupying substandard quarters. This is getting to be an old story, but maybe this year something will be done about it.

My suggestion is a simple one. Why can't the law be made retroactive to the start of the year. Then, if Congress delays action on the bill service families won't be penalized.

It's a suggestion that would certainly have a positive effect on morale. However, I guess it will be enough of a success if the Congress and the Pentagon get together on a plan that would take the Government out of the rent-baron category.

A HOPEFUL CAPTAIN

One More Colonel

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

The recent change of command in the top WAC assignment points up a situation that should be corrected.

I think it's wrong that an officer who serves in such an important post as Director of the WAC must revert from colonel to lieutenant colonel when she completes that four-year assignment.

It seems to me that Congress would go along with a bill that would authorize permanent rank of colonel for women officers who fill such assignments as head of the WAC, WAF and Nurse Corps.

One more colonel's billet, or even several more, wouldn't hurt anything, and would provide greater recognition for the service of women in uniform.

INFANTRY COLONEL

Gyroscope Information

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

The Army is to be congratulated for sticking by its guns and giving its people long advance information about Gyroscope moves, like the November 1957 shift of the Fourth and Second Armored Divisions.

However, as you point out, the situation is a little different when it comes to the matter of plans to convert divisions to the new "Pentomic" setup.

It hardly makes sense that we can put out word on shifts of divisions overseas almost a year ahead of the moves and still not say anything officially about streamlining divisions.

The people I talk to like the Gyroscope approach; they want to know what's going to happen to them and to their outfits and to the rest of the Army.

Bill Increases Pay For WAAC Service

About $79,000 will be added to pay checks of women officers of the Army and Air Force under legislation which went to the Capitol this week.

The proposal grants credit for WWII service as a member of the WAAC to persons who subsequently performed active military service in the Armed Forces. It will be introduced in the House by Representative Overton Brooks (D-La).

The plan also provides that a person entitled to pension or compensation administered by the Veterans Administration, based upon active military service, may elect within one year from the effective date of the legislation to receive that pension or compensation in lieu of any compensation under the Federal Employees Compensation Act to which such person may be entitled on the basis of the same service.

The election would be irrevocable and would not create entitlement to the pension or compensation for periods prior to the date the election is made.

COLLEGE PRESIDENTS SOON may get the word of cut-backs in the ROTC program. The problem is known to be under new study at the Pentagon—part of the overall look at Reserve Forces. Attempts to curtail ROTC output in the past have provoked high-level opposition from educators. But the fact of the matter is that the Army and Air Force are unable to use effectively for two years active duty all the graduates pouring out of the ROTC programs.

DON'T BE SURPRISED if former Representative Dewey Short of Missouri, who had been the top-ranking minority member of the House Armed Services Committee is appointed to an Administration post—possibly in the Pentagon. There is talk that he is being considered for the post of Assistant SecDef for Legislative and Public Affairs, now held by Robert T. Ross. MR. SHORT'S SUCCESSOR as ranking minority member is Representative Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, a WWI Navy seaman. He fought hard and successfully for legislation to improve promotion opportunities for military officers. Mr. Arends is expected to continue the close working relationship that Mr. Short had with Chairman Carl Vinson of Georgia. The House Committee is greatly admired throughout the Services for its non-partisan approach to military matters.

SERVICE FATHERS with sons who are anxious for appointments to the Army, Navy, Air Force or Coast Guard Academies are hopeful that new Pentagon legislation authorizing more Presidential choices (see Page 2) will be voted. Beyond this, there is a great feeling that physical requirements could be relaxed a bit in some cases to permit youngsters with high career motivation to enter the Academies. THERE'S A CHANCE that the White House may recommend such a procedure, in view of the President's obvious desire to name more Service Sons for the Academies.

NEED AN EXTRA $100? There's a chance to pick up such an amount from the Navy. All that is required is that an individual recover or supply information leading to the recovery of a lost torpedo. In some instances, where the recovery is unusual, $200 will be paid by the Bureau of Ordnance.

A FORMER ARMY SERGEANT, Representative Leon H. Gavin (R-Pa) has become the ranking minority member of the House Armed Services subcommittee which handles most of the Defense Department's top personnel bills. He will work closely with Representative Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex), who again serves as chairman of the subcommittee. Congressman Gavin was a sergeant in the 51st Infantry, Sixth Division, during WWI. He has served in the House since 1942. Congressman Kilday, whose name has been closely linked with all of the recent pay increases for the Armed Services, has been a member of the Congress since 1938.

THE FIRST PODIATRIST has been commissioned in the Army. He is former Sgt. (now 2d Lt.) John L. Charlton, Jr., USA, who is being reassigned from the Pentagon, where he was a medical technician, to Walter Reed Army Medical Center, where he will work with physicians in the treatment of patients with foot problems.

ARMY MISSILE LEADERS will press for an early decision from the Air Force regarding its intentions to provide or deny budget support for work on the Jupiter IRBM at Redstone Arsenal, Ala. The Army people have been up in the air since SecDef Wilson's 26 Nov. Roles and Missions statement, which denied to that Service operational use of missiles beyond a 200 mile range. THE NAVY, which has been participating with the Army in development of a ship-based Jupiter, now apparently is being given a Pentagon green light to pull out and concentrate on a project of its own—a seafaring IRBM called Polaris.

A SPECIAL ATOMIC RATING BADGE may be considered for Navy sailors who complete one of the current three nuclear training programs. Hundreds of enlisted men are expected to receive nuclear power training in the next several years. ONE PROBLEM is the fact that such a rating badge could create potential security problems, since it would identify men with particularly "sensitive" skills.

THE DEFENSE DEPT. HAS CLEARED an article by Army Maj. Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Director of Plans, D/CofS, Military Operations, which differs from the 26 Nov. Roles and Missions statement of SecDef Wilson. The Secretary contends that the Services have sufficient airlift to meet current requirements. Says General Wheeler in the January issue of the Army Information Digest: "The Army estimates that it could reasonably count on having available enough strategic airlift to move rapidly the combat echelon of one division (5000 tons) to a threatened area. But this is not sufficient to cope with the local aggression situation which may well arise from time to time."

A PENTAGON BREAKFAST on 23 Jan. will see SecDef Wilson playing host to members of the House Armed Services Committee. The Secretary apparently intends to use the opportunity over a second cup of coffee to outline the Department's legislative objectives for the Committee. Five days later, the Representatives will begin a series of sessions at which they will be briefed by military and civilian leaders of the Services. Incidentally, the House Armed Services Committee this week celebrated its 10th birthday; it's the largest (37 members) Committee on Capitol Hill.

MARINE CORPS ATOMIC CAPABILITY, which caused a Pentagon-White House-Capitol stir this week will be bolstered in the future by assignment of the new Army Little John Rocket to Leatherneck forces. The Marines are assigning officers to White Sands Proving Ground, N. M., in connection with operational tests for the Honest John and Little John systems. It's been revealed previously that the Marines will use the Lacrosse surface-to-surface missile, as well as the Terrier surface-to-air missile.

THE LABOR DEPARTMENT'S PROGRAM to relieve the Nation's shortage of teachers by placing retired military personnel in secondary schools does not appear to be making much progress if the results of the District of Columbia program are used as a guidestick. Since August 1956, when the D. C. Employment Service began keeping a log of replacements, only four retired officers have been employed in teaching posts. The Federal Bureau of Employment Security states that it does not keep a Nation-wide tally of the program's results since the cost of gathering the statistics would be prohibitive.

Chem. Corps Develops Respiration Device

An artificial respiration device for treating nerve-gas casualties during a gas attack is being developed by the Army Chemical Corps in collaboration with the Surgeon General of the Army.
The device can be used to give artificial respiration in drowning cases, electric shock, suffocation and similar accidents.
The resuscitators will not be generally available for at least a year.
This is the first device permitting artificial respiration in contaminated air.
It utilizes the power developed by the aid man's breathing to supply purified air to casualty's lungs even though treatment is being given in a toxic atmosphere. Plans for field testing the resuscitator are being studied.

Trans. Corps Tests Rolling Fluid Bag

The Army Transportation Corps is experimenting with an outsized rubber bag known as a "rolling fluid transporter" for transporting bulk liquids and fuels.

Component parts of the "transporter" are a series of collapsible fabric reinforced rubber bags centered with appropriate axles connected with a towing yoke. Several can be towed behind Army equipment with no loss of cargo space of the truck body, or requirement for heavy equipment to lift them aboard.

When towed behind vehicles, the transporters present no greater problem of maneuverability than those encountered in handling conventional auto trailers. Although a transporter has a capacity of 500 gallons and weighs 4100 pounds fully loaded, six can be towed on level ground by a conventional jeep.

Eleven of the transporters were experimented with last summer at Thule Air Base, Greenland, moving fuel 1100 miles over the snow and contributing greatly to the Arctic transportation operations.

Helping to speed your telephone call. Telephone man Byron Jensen tests the intricate equipment that gets your number quickly and accurately. PHOTOGRAPHS BY ANSEL ADAMS

He keeps an electric brain thinking clearly

You benefit from skills like his whenever you use the telephone

Every time you make a call over a dial telephone, you start an electric brain "thinking" in one of our offices.

First, it tells you when to start dialing by means of a tone. Selects your number automatically from many thousands or millions. Then rings your party or tells you the line is busy.

Such equipment is indeed remarkable. But with all its electronic magic, it still needs the help of people. Day and night, there is continuous checking and maintenance by telephone office craftsmen like Byron Jensen.

"A big part of the job," he says, "is to keep trouble off the lines. For every one of those calls is important to someone. And some can be very important."

"Not only personal calls, but fire alarms, burglar alarms, radio programs and even newspaper pictures go through this same equipment."

Each Sunday Byron teaches a class for boys. Many evenings and week ends are devoted to Boy Scout work.

For a person who enjoys helping others, he finds his telephone work particularly satisfying.

"Whenever I watch those dial switches work," he says, "I get the feeling I'm at the nerve center of the community."

Instructing Boy Scouts. Byron, a troop chairman, shows scouts how to orient themselves with a map and compass in the beautiful Wasatch Range near Provo, Utah.

These grants, given each year in memory of the Society's founder Mrs. Eugenia Bradford Roberts, are made available by individual contributions to the D.U.S.A. Memorial Fund in honor of a deceased friend or relative and through support of the chapters and individual members of the Society.

Scholarships are available to daughters of retired or deceased officers of the Regular Army to provide assistance in furthering their education.

TO BE ELIGIBLE, an applicant must submit the prescribed application form prior to 31 March for the next succeeding academic year; present evidence of above average scholastic standing in academic work completed to date; and be able to meet the requirements for membership in the Society but need not be a member at the time of application. EACH SCHOLARSHIP CONSISTS of a maximum grant of $400 to be used for tuition, lab fees and text books. First consideration is given each year to those recipients of the previous year who have not completed their courses of study. However, at the discretion of the Board of Scholarship Judges, awards may be made to better qualified and more deserving applicants in succeeding years.

VA Promises Protection Under Survivors Law

Protection against the wrong choice of death benefits under the new Survivor Benefits Act will be extended to widows, guardians of children and dependent parents now receiving compensation for the service-connected death of veterans, the Veterans Administration has announced.

VA said every election of benefits submitted beneficiaries under the new law will be studied to determine whether the person selected the lower instead of the higher monthly payment to which he or she may be eligible.

If the lower monthly payment has been selected, VA said, no action will be taken on the election, but a letter explaining the difference between the two payments will be sent to the beneficiary.

VA emphasized that the election in every case will be the responsibility of the beneficiary. The agency said it merely will provide the necessary information that beneficiaries need to arrive at a decision. This information, VA said, will be based on the facts in each beneficiary's file.

VA estimates that for nearly 100,000 widows the new benefit is unquestionably higher than the present death compensation. These are widows who have no children or widows with no more than one child. These widows should file their election as soon as possible so they may begin receiving the new benefit at the earliest date, VA said.

Widows who have more than one child should put off their election until they receive information from the VA as to the exact amount of the new benefit and whether it exceeds the amount of monthly benefits now being paid.

Generally, VA added, dependent parents will find it to their advantage to continue to receive death compensation rather than to elect the new benefit. The decision as to which benefit is better must be made by the parent considering his personal situation, VA said.

FUND AIDS ORPHANS AND WIDOWS

A grant of $10,000 has been made available by the Robert R. McCormick Charitable Trust Fund to Ft. Riley, Kans., for relief to widows and orphans.

Stipulations accompanying the fund, which has been turned over to the Army Relief, gives first priority to widows and orphans of servicemen from the state of Illinois and second preference to surviving members of the "Big Red One."

Mrs. Willis S. Matthews, wife of Fort Riley's Commanding General, has been selected to work with the Army Emergency Relief officials as a representative of the 1st Division personnel. Mrs. Hubert D. Lewis, wife of the Deputy Post Commander, will serve as the representative of Post people in the administration of assistance.

The grant is part of the estate of the late Colonel Robert R. McCormick, World War I member of the 1st Division.

Among his assets was a farm home outside Chicago which was left as a museum for trophies of the 1st Infantry Division. Early in December a delegation from the McCormick Foundation visited Fort Riley to determine what material could be made available for the Chicago Museum.

Burial services were held at the National Cemetery, Ft. Lewis, Wash., on 27 Dec., for Brig. Gen. William Foster Daugherty, NG-Ret., who died of a recurring heart condition, on 23 Dec., at Tacoma, Wash., at the age of 62.

A graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, Class of April 1917, General Daugherty resigned his commission in the Regular Army in 1928, when he moved to California and entered National Guard service. In 1941, he was called to active Federal duty and served as Chief of Staff of the 40th Infantry Division. A severe illness in 1942 resulted in his retirement from active service, as an AUS colonel and a National Guard brigadier general.

General Daugherty had served as president of the Pasadena Tuberculosis Association, president of the Board of Directors of Pasadena's Hospitality House and as Senior Warden of the Episcopal Church there. In Tacoma, he again became a Senior Warden and a lay reader, was twice elected as a delegate to the Episcopal National Convention, organized a church men's club, led in the organization of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, and was awarded the first Bishop's Cross, now annually presented to outstanding lay-Huachuca, Ariz., on New Year's morning, were to be held at Madison, Ind., following private services at the Post Chapel, Ft. Huachuca, on 3 January. Death was attributed to coronary thrombosis.

Born at Mattoon, Ill., General McClure was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army, while serving with the Philippine Constabulary. During WWI, he served in China and, on Armistice Day 1918, he married Miss Marjory Leitch, daughter of the late Maj. Gen. Joseph Leitch, USA, at Kobe, Japan. When WWII was declared, General McClure was in London, England, and his service in the war years took him to Africa and Europe. He was instrumental in the establishment and operation of Psychological Warfare in the U. S. Army. General McClure's last assignment, prior to his recent retirement from active duty, was as Chief of the Military Mission in Teheran, Iran.

He and Mrs. McClure had purchased some land and were planning to settle at San Clemente, Calif., to which they were en route from the East Coast at the time of General McClure's death.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Harriet J. Eckart of Clearwater, Fla.; two sons, Maj. Robert D. McClure, USAF, now at Brackwell Royal AFB, England, and Capt. Richard A. INDUSTRY IN DEFENSE

JET CAR developed for the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics to test aircraft arresting gear. The bright red hot rod, powered by four jet engines, roars down a test track at 200 miles per hour or more pushing in front of it dead loads which are slammed into arresting gear testing the strength of the gear and its capability to absorb the energy of a landing jet fighter or bomber. It was developed by the All American Engineering Co. of Wilmington, Del.

Solar Aircraft Wins Gas-Turbine Contract

The Navy has contracted with the Solar Aircraft Co., San Diego, Calif., for development of a new gas-turbine engine which it hopes will offer long service life, light weight, and high speed.

The engine design is an outgrowth of Solar's 500 horsepower "Jupiter" engine which has been used successfully as the main propulsion for a 40-foot Navy personnel boat. Component developments of the "Jupiter" have permitted extension of the design. It is foreseen that the improved model will have twice the power of the "Jupiter" and will be designed specifically for marine use.

The new model will operate on diesel fuel and incorporate features which will make it particularly suited for rugged duty. Such an engine could be used either as a main propulsion unit in landing and patrol craft or as a prime mover for ships' generators.

Supply & Subsistence Inspection Hq. Moved

Army Quartermaster Corps Inspection Headquarters for General Supplies and Subsistence, now located at the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot, will be transferred to the Columbus, Ohio, General Depot and the Military Subsistence Supply Agency, Chicago.

These transfers are in keeping with the Army's program of allocating inspection functions to commodity managers. Inspection Headquarters for Clothing and Textiles will remain in Philadelphia but will be assigned to the Executive Director of the Military Clothing and Textile Supply Agency recently established at the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot.

Field inspection activities at suppliers' plants generally will remain unchanged, except that personnel administration of inspectors will be readjusted upon establishment of separate Quartermaster field inspection offices for each of the three major commodity areas of General Supplies, Subsistence, and Clothing and Textiles.

AF Contract To Sperry

Sperry Gyroscope Company, Division of Sperry Rand Corporation, has been awarded a $6,471,402 Air Force contract for radar systems.

The equipment, Sperry's APN-59 airborne radar system believed to be the smallest and lightest for its size and range, performs precise, varied functions of search and surveillance, storm detection and other all-weather navigation procedures, and has been ordered in great numbers for use in the Air Force's troop and cargo-carrying transports.

The lightweight radar can be adjusted for pinpoint, distortion-free viewing of both ground and air objects at distances to 240 miles, according to Sperry.

NAA Ends Nine Years' Production of F-86s

Nine years production of the North American F-86 Sabre Jet has come to a close.

Capt. Ralph S. Parr, USAF, the Korea jet ace who bagged the final Communist plane of the war, accepted delivery of the last F-86 to roll off the assembly lines at North American Aviation's Los Angeles plant on 28 Dec.

Production of the versatile fighter, America's first sweptwing airplane, is still continuing in four other countries while the more than 6,000 Sabre Jets produced by North American in Los Angeles and Columbus, Ohio, continue on active service with Air Force and Air National Guard units in this country and abroad. Famed most for its 14-to-1 kill ratio over Communist MIG-15's in Korea, the Sabre Jet also is known for the world speed records and National Aircraft Show Bendix Trophies captured during a near decade of operational service which is still being extended.

Captain Parr, now assigned to the Air Force Rocketry School at Vincent AFB, Ariz., said the sweptwing fighter was the only jet in the Korean War to win its pilots an ace's rating. He shot down 10 Russian-built MIG's and one propeller-driven aircraft in less than three months.

Production of the F-86 is continuing under company license in Canada, Italy, Japan and Australia. The plane is flown by many Tactical Air Command units and by pilots in France, Holland, Germany, Norway, Turkey, Colombia, Peru, Venezuela, South Africa and Pakistan.

Philco Official's Navy Weapons Work Cited

The Navy has presented the Distinguished Service Award to Charles H. Godschall, Manager of Tooling and Tool Engineering for the Government and Industrial Division of Philco Corporation, for outstanding work in the development of a new underwater weapon.

The citation, the second to be received by Mr. Godschall in his distinguished career, reads, "For outstanding service to the U. S. Navy in which he served as a specific consultant to the Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance from 1 April 1954 to 31 May 1956. As a direct result of Mr. Godschall's recommendation concerning major improvements in research and development procedures and underwater ordnance, the Navy has today thoroughly documented the design disclosure of a new and advanced anti-submarine weapon. The productivity of this weapon is assured, the functional performance has been demonstrated by in-service testing, and production costs have been reduced by about 40 per cent from the estimated figure. Mr. Godschall, by his penetration, analysis of the design and production problems of the Bureau of Ordnance, and his extensive experience in industrial design and production, has greatly assisted the Chief, Bureau of Ordnance, to define the fundamental causes and to find practical remedies for the many difficult problems besetting transition to complex un-

U. S. COAST GUARD

Commandant—Vice Adm. Alfred C. Richmond
Secretary of The Treasury—George M. Humphrey

HANDICAPPED by the fact that too few men are seeking Coast Guard careers, the Coast Guard has been forced to operate its 12 Districts with an enlisted strength 8.9 per cent below authorized levels.

As of 30 Nov. 1956, the Coast Guard was allowed to have a total of 21,839 EM to man its District billets, both ashore and afloat. At that time, however, the total number of men on hand was 19,902.

The disparity between authorized manpower levels and the actual on-board strength means that the Districts have been required to operate such facilities as ocean station vessels, port security vessels, radio stations, air stations and LORAN transmitting stations at below par manning levels.

In the 8th Coast Guard District, New Orleans, La., for example, afloat billets are being operated by an enlisted complement more than 20 per cent below permissible levels.

None of the 12 Districts is operating at its total authorized strength.

Mr. Godschall, long an expert in management and production methods, received his first Distinguished Service Award in 1943 from the Army.

Mr. Godschall has been recently connected with the production development program on the Navy's new guided missile SIDEWINDER currently being produced by Philco Corporation. He is a Life Member of the American Ordnance Association serving as the Deputy Chairman of the Underwater Ordnance Division of that group. He is also a Life Member of the Ordnance Advisory Panel of the National Security Industrial Association.
